The second floor exhibits a double hung two over two rectangular window in each bay, with stone sill and arched brick lintel. A bracketed and dentilled wooden cornice with brick frieze caps the structure.

and a bracketed wooden window cornice tops both window and

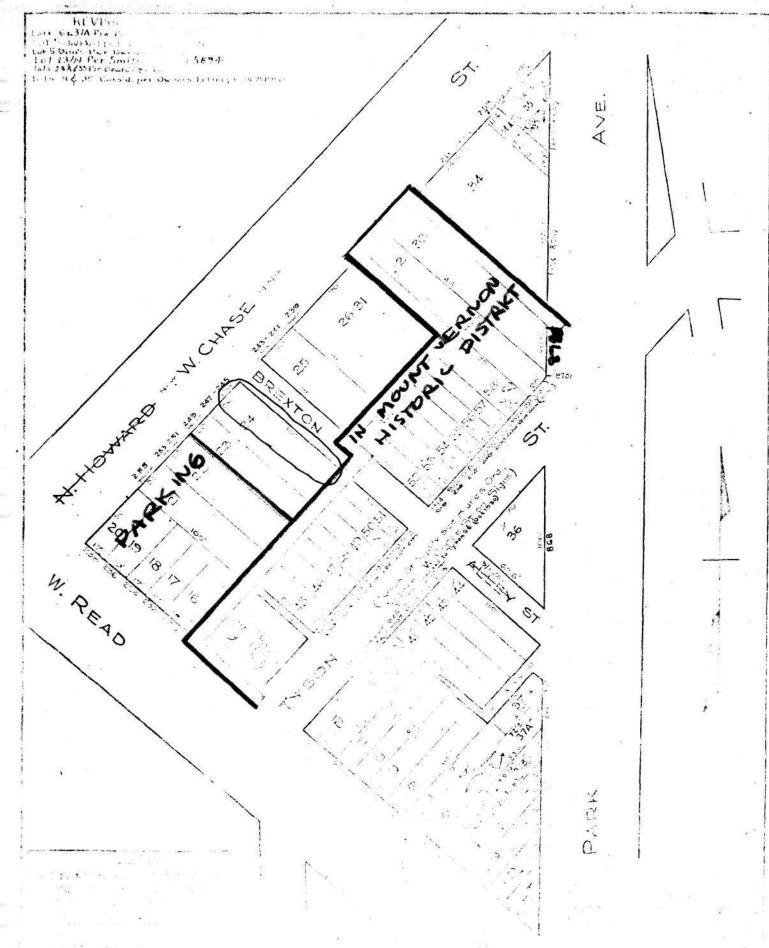

The Brexton Street facade features a rectangular door with arched brick lintel in the furthest bay from Chase street approached by a single stone step. The other ground floor bays contain double hung rectangular windows with four over four lights, stone sills and arched brick lintels. Rectangular cellar windows with arched brick lintels underlied the second, fourth, and sixth bays of the Brexton Street facade.

Proportionally scaled windows fill the second, third, fourth, and seventh upper story bays. Three parapets step down from the Chase Street facade along Brexton Street while a chimney protrudes from the second bay.

The building forms a single structure with 247 W. Chase Street.
